Why National Libraries Matter, Now & In The Future

[1] Group Discussions

In small groups, you will discuss the question why National Libraries matter, now and in the future: what do / can they do for present and future generations? What is the relevance of our institutions to children and adolescents, how do we engage them in our mission, what do we do for and with them?

[2] Individual Statements

After some time for groups discussion, we ask you to 'pitch-wise' answer (in English) this question as if you were speaking to a 14 year old from your country, in (max.) 1 minute:

Why do National Libraries matter now & in the future?

We will make a short compilation video of all your convincing and appealing pitches. The video will be made available through the (renewed) CDNL website.
